THE GHOST IN YOU

Ed Brubaker

Night Moves

As Anna ran from the shadows...

And the things hiding inside them...

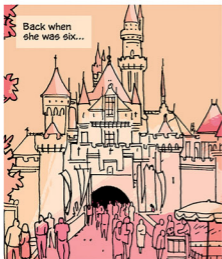

The first thought that hit her was...

Ethan is going to be so pissed.

Then she thought about her mother, and the time she'd lost her at Disneyland...

Back when she was six...

That hour of fear that never completely went away inside her...

She remembered the picture they took in the booth that day...

Anna frowning, in mouse ears...

Mom a little bit drunk... trying to make her laugh...

Why did she always think about that stupid picture, she wondered...

And then she noticed the sound of the night birds outside...

In the rain...

They sang to each other in the trees... little trills and chirps...

Oblivious to her pain...

Then she thought about
Lorna Valentine again...

Scream queen of the B movies...

And she really wished she hadn't taken this case.
