One thing I've noticed
is the age that I am.

You want to think that the world stops when you're not around, only to find out that it
moves on just fine.

Now and then, you
discover most things
don't change at all.

But for a few,
the world did stop
without you.

Life is a series
of boomerangs.

The past keeps coming back at me no matter
how hard I
throw.
